can psychology and religion engage in constructive dialogue has psychology a contribution to make in christian formation these are some of the issues addressed in this volume marking 25 years of the institute of psychology of the gregorian university the twenty articles which make up the work offer essential insights into how psychology and religion can meet and interact constructively at the level of theory and of practice these insights are presented in the context of an overall christian anthropology which continues to develop and to further refine its practical applications the contributions are divided into four sections theory and method dialogue between psychology and other disciplines applications in different cultures and concrete experiences of applying a psychologically informed christian anthropology in the educational setting the balanced approach presented in this work makes it both a serious instrument of study and a valuable point of reference for the educator its constant reference to a christian conception of the person will help avoid short sighted pragmatism

Krzysztof Pawlina presents in his book a profile of a candidate for the priesthood who enters a seminary in Poland the study was first conducted by survey method in 2000 and then repeated twenty years later in the former period the survey covered seminarians born and partly brought up during the communist rule in Poland while in the latter the survey subjects were young people who were brought up in the conditions of a democracy and the free market economy the research captured the change that had taken place in regard to the social identity lifestyle and mentality of candidates for the priesthood the study covered aspects such as the geographical and social sources of priestly vocations the cultural background of priesthood candidates their religiosity their world of values their motivations their understanding of the priesthood and the church this change in question was explored in the context of social transformations especially the secularisation processes taking place in the last two decades of poland when in the 1970 s sister prudence allen rsm began to investigate philosophical thought on woman the question was considered to be at best a marginal area for philosophical research rather it was seen as a sociological anthropological psychological or political issue this book confirms that today partly due to allen s groundbreaking work the complementarity of man and woman is an important and fruitful area of research in philosophy providing an evaluative framework that enriches and challenges many other disciplines no one could have foreseen the centrality of her research for questions of gender theory that are in the third decade of the 21st century in the forefront of public attention in the present volume leading authors in the area of sex gender complementarity reflect upon and further develop various aspects of allen s research in 14 original scholarly essays some contributors build upon allen s project of exploring the concept of woman throughout the history of philosophy others explore the work of 20th century philosophers most of them christian personalists whom allen credits with significant influence on the development of integral gender complementarity such as karol wojty a john paul ii jacques maritain edith stein emmanuel mounier w norris clarke sj and bernard lonergan sj still other contributors consider marian spirituality analogies between benedictine spirituality and the physiological realities of a woman s body during pregnancy seminary education in the writings of allen and others and the impact of allen s work on the real lives of women in families the church and professional life upon completing her magisterial three volume work the concept of woman allen passed the baton to a new generation of scholars stating the next phases will be developed by those who themselves take the argument further and deeper in their own research writing living and lecturing the present volume takes up the baton carrying allen s work forward and paying tribute to the lifetime achievement of a great scholar
